I Lost My Cat
What do I do?

1. Visit your local animal shelter's website and see if your cat is listed on their lost and found page. This map shows animal shelters in the Metro Denver area.
2. Put your cat's bed or litterbox outside so they can smell home.
3. Put food out at night.
   a. Checking around your house at night and calling for your cat at night is the best way to get their attention.
      i. Cats are more likely to come out at night because there is less activity around.
4. Make a free Lost Cat poster at PetFBI.
   a. Tips for making a Lost Cat poster:
      i. Use a clear image of your cat
      ii. Make sure to describe any unique markings on your cat, or if he/she was wearing a collar when they went missing.
      iii. Include the cross street and date where/when your cat was last seen.
      iv. Keep it simple- Don't include unnecessary writing on your poster or people may not read it.
      v. Print your poster on bright colored paper such as yellow, orange or pink.
   b. Distribute and post flyers in a 3-mile radius from where your cat was last seen.
   c. Distribute posters to vet clinics, shelters and pet stores in your area.
5. If your cat was microchipped, call the microchip company. If you don't know your pets microchip company, you can look it up on here by entering their microchip number. Once you have called the company, make sure your contact info is up-to-date and that the company knows your pet is lost.
6. Post a Missing Cat ad on Craigslist, Nextdoor, and Facebook.
7. If you or anyone sees your cat, but you are not able to catch them call us at 844-336-2287 to rent a free cat trap.
